

Aviation Medicine

As a Cabin Crew member you are expected to be aware of your responsibilities and the procedures to follow in a medical emergency situation on board the aircraft.

The AVMED training component is aligned to CAA requirements.

Aviation Medicine is in line with SAQA Unit Standard 119083 (Manage in-flight medical emergencies)

Initials, Recurrent and Refresher Training is offered for this module.
Requires 90% pass mark on final examination.

Aviation Medicine Training will include but is not limited to the following modules:
Included in this module is CPR theory and practical.

Introduction

Glossary
First Aid
Medical Emergencies
Cabin Crew Hygiene

Equipment

Oxygen Cylinders
Sky Chair
Doctor's Bag
First Aid kit

Medical Conditions

Respiration and physiology of flight
Asthma attack
Hyperventilation
Hypoxia

Blood and Circulation

The blood vessels
Foreign body
Nosebleed

Shock

Causes of shock

Burns

Types of burns

Effects of extreme temperatures

Hypothermia
Frostbite
Heat Exhaustion
Heat Stroke